

Oregon Humanities Center

2018–19 Teaching Fellowship Application

Objective

Oregon Humanities Center (OHC) Teaching Fellowships provide faculty members with summer support to develop a new undergraduate humanities course or substantially redesign an existing one. Faculty may apply individually or in collaboration with another faculty member. The course will be listed in the instructor's home department(s). Proposed courses may be of any size, and they may be introductory or advanced. While courses developed under the OHC Teaching Fellowship program must be primarily intended for undergraduate students, they may also be open to graduate students. It is desirable that courses developed through the OHC Teaching Fellowship program be repeated.

Guidelines and Conditions

1. Proposed courses must be humanistic in content, but faculty may hold an appointment in any department, college, or school. The term humanities as used here includes literature; philosophy; history; religion; ethics; the history, theory, and criticism of the arts; and the historical or interpretive aspects of the social and natural sciences and the professions.
2. All tenure-related UO faculty are eligible to apply. Career non-tenure-track faculty with an FTE of .50 or more who have been employed by the UO for at least three years at the time of application are also eligible. Visiting faculty are not eligible. Faculty who will not be employed by the University of Oregon during the 2018–19 academic year are ineligible.
3. OHC Teaching Fellows must devote a minimum of 4 consecutive weeks to course development during summer 2018.
4. Course must be taught in fall, winter, or spring of the 2018–19 academic year
5. If for any reason a teaching fellowship recipient's circumstances change (e.g., due to sabbatical leave, leave without pay, or the receipt of another award or grant which conflicts with the conditions of this fellowship) and the awardee is not able to use the fellowship during the summer for which it was granted, the fellowship must be forfeited. OHC fellowships cannot be deferred.
6. If a fellowship recipient is denied tenure or issued a terminal contract prior to the beginning of the fellowship, the fellowship must be forfeited.

$4,500 in Summer Salary

OHC Teaching Fellowships provide $4,500 (plus OPE) in summer wages paid directly to the faculty member during summer 2018. Summer wages are normally paid in one lump sum in July. In the case of collaborative applications, each faculty member will receive $4,500 plus OPE in summer pay.

Course Enrichment Funds

Teaching Fellowships can provide additional funding of up to $1,000 for course enrichment (e.g., for visiting lecturers, films, course materials, etc.). This funding must be explicitly requested at the time of application. Applicants seeking these funds must provide a brief statement of purpose and include a proposed budget as part of the fellowship application. The additional course enrichment funds may not be taken as salary. Course enrichment funds must be used by the last day of the term in which the course is taught. Course enrichment funds are awarded per course; they are not augmented in the case of collaborative or team-taught courses.

Wulf and Coleman-Guitteau Options

Faculty may in some cases be eligible to apply for up to $4,000 in enrichment funds through the OHC's Wulf Professorship or the Coleman-Guitteau Professorship.

The Wulf and Coleman-Guitteau Professorships are awarded on a competitive basis to successful OHC Teaching Fellowship applicants who can demonstrate that their course meets the criteria of the professorship for which they are applying. A faculty member who wishes to be considered for a Wulf or Coleman-Guitteau Professorship must attach to the Teaching Fellowship Application the corresponding professorship application form.

Please note:

- Applicants may apply for only one professorship—Wulf or Coleman-Guitteau.
- If a Wulf or Coleman-Guitteau Professorship is awarded, the applicant will receive up to $4,000 in course enrichment funds but will not receive the $1,000 associated with a regular teaching fellowship.
- If a Wulf or Coleman-Guitteau Professorship is not awarded, the applicant will still be eligible for standard course enrichment funds, if requested in the Teaching Fellowship Application.

Application Guidelines

Teaching Fellowship proposals should be written in language that is clear to readers outside the applicant's discipline. All margins must be a minimum of one inch and font must be Times 12 pt. or larger. The proposal should include the following elements, presented in the order listed below and using the headings provided. Please number the pages of the narrative.

Narrative proposals exceeding the 4-page limit (exclusive of syllabi) will not be considered.

1. Cover Sheet: A copy of the official cover sheet with the signature of your department head (and dean, if applicable), indicating approval of your plan to teach the proposed course during the academic quarter specified. If application is for a team-taught course, each applicant must submit a cover sheet. (Note: CAS faculty do not need to obtain the Dean's signature.)

2. Narrative Proposal (not to exceed four single-spaced pages)

- a. Humanistic content, orientation, and significance of the course

Applicants must explain the significance of the course, and how the content or orientation is appropriate to an interdisciplinary humanities curriculum. Applicants should briefly describe their teaching philosophy and experience, and explain the pedagogical approach they plan to use in the proposed course.

Please note: If the teaching fellowship proposal involves an existing course, please indicate the current course number and title, and clearly explain how the proposed course will differ substantially from the existing one, including a description of any plans to change the course content and/or pedagogical approach.

- b. Course development requirements

Applicants should describe any study or preparation they will need to undertake prior to offering the course, and include a specific schedule of the work to be done.

- c. Course enrichment funds

If regular course enrichment and/or Wulf or Coleman-Guitteau funds are requested (see page 1), a plan with an estimated budget must be provided as part of the application narrative.

3. Course syllabus/syllabi

Revisions of existing courses: Faculty should provide a copy of the current syllabus (clearly marked as such), as well as a draft of the proposed syllabus that includes the following information: subject matter; course objectives; level (introductory, intermediate, advanced); size (desired enrollment or enrollment limit); format (lecture, seminar, etc.); specific readings (or their equivalent); specific course requirements and organization (projects, papers, reports, exams, etc.); and the academic quarter for which the course is proposed.

New courses: It is understood that the syllabus for a new course will not be fully developed at the time of application. Therefore, a proposal for a new course should include: a draft of the syllabus with a description of the topics (as detailed as possible); the planned treatment of the topics; the proposed pedagogical tools (exercises, articles, archives, collections, books, films, slides, performances, etc.); a preliminary list of the required readings or a brief bibliography; and the goals of the course.

4. Abbreviated Curriculum Vitae (not to exceed two pages) should include:

- a. the applicant's education;
- b. employment history;
- c. academic honors or awards received, including any teaching awards;
- d. a statement of primary and secondary teaching areas;
- e. scholarly work (e.g., publications and papers).

Submitting Your Proposal

Your application packet should be compiled in this order and paperclipped:

- ___ cover sheet(s)
- ___ narrative proposal
- ___ relevant syllabus/syllabi
- ___ curriculum vitae
- ___ Wulf or Coleman-Guitteau application form (if applicable)

Make six additional complete, collated and stapled copies (double-sided whenever possible). You should submit a total of seven identical packets: your original plus six copies.

Deadline

Monday, October 30, 2017 by 5 p.m. to the Oregon Humanities Center, 154 PLC. All required signatures must be obtained prior to submission to the OHC.

All applications will be reviewed by a panel of University of Oregon faculty from a variety of disciplines who serve on the Oregon Humanities Center Advisory Board. Applicants will be notified by email by January 8, 2018.
