Jordan Schnitzer Museum of Art

Hours: Wednesday 11 a.m.-8 p.m.; Thursday through Sunday 11 a.m.-5 p.m. Admission: Adults $5; Seniors (62 and older) $3; Students (high school and non-UO college with ID) $3; Children (13 and under) free; University of Oregon students, faculty, and staff free with ID. To See Big within Small: Microcarvings by Chen Zhongsen exhibit September 20, 2006 through January 28, 2007. The seemingly magical ability of artists to capture vast panoramas in the confined space of a scroll or album leaf has long been appreciated by Chinese writers. The contemporary artist Chen Zhongsen applies this ideal of “big within small” to the art of calligraphy by engraving poems and other texts on a miniature scale that must be seen to be believed.

After School Program: Words and Images on Wednesdays, September 27 through November 15, 3:15-5:15 p.m. Students will explore the relationship between text and image through media such as drawing, painting, sculpture, and printmaking. No previous art experience is required, just a sense of adventure and the desire to experiment with different methods of making art! Tuition fee includes all materials. Ages 7-11. Instructor: Liz Parr. Tuition: $100 ($90 for museum members).

Faux or for Real: The Art of Researching Art exhibit September 30, 2006 through February 4, 2007. This exhibit examines how the scholarship of art history and the application of scientific research can help determine the authenticity of a work of art.

A Way with Words: The Calligraphic Art of Jung Do-jun exhibit October 21, 2006 through January 7, 2007. Calligraphy was traditionally viewed throughout East Asia as the supreme visual art form, and it continues to occupy an important place in much contemporary Asian art. Jung Do-jun’s works utilize a wide range of media and formats, and exemplify the exciting and creative possibilities that keep calligraphy relevant as a modern art form.
